

Week of September 21st Setup

In this week's Chart of the Week, we take a look at Cipher Digital ($CIFR), which is testing a major descending trendline after building a base around the mid-teens. A clean breakout above the trendline and $20.31 would be the first real confirmation that momentum is shifting, with the larger upside target sitting near $34.03. As long as CIFR continues holding the recent $15–$16 area, the risk/reward remains attractive for a potential trend reversal.

$CIFR is no longer just a Bitcoin mining story, it is rapidly becoming an AI/HPC data center infrastructure play. The company has signed long-term AI hosting agreements with AWS, Fluidstack and Google-backed projects, including roughly $5.5B of contracted revenue from its 15-year AWS Black Pearl lease and about $3.8B of initial contracted revenue at Barber Lake with Fluidstack.
